Two Boys Drown Near Pescadero

A Sunday outing to Pescadero creek ended tragically Sunday for two San Francisco boys. The younger of the boys, Alvin Allen, was paddling an improvised raft around a pool in the creek when the raft capsized and the boy was thrown into the water He was unable to swim and sank from sight. His friend, James A. Curran, 18, also a poor swimmer, sprang from the bank to the assistance of the younger boy, but was himself engulfed by the water.

Mrs. Mary A. Curran, 965 Elizabeth street, San Francisco, mother of the Curran boy, witnessed the double tragedy from the banks. Her screams attracted others who prevented her from flinging herself into the water after the two youths. Assistant Scout Master Claude DeVine, 18-year-old Burlingame boy was one of the first on the scene and dived for half an hour before he succeeding in bringing both bodies to the land.

Dr C. V. Thompson of Pescadero was in attendance when the boys' bodies were found, and County Fire Warden Bert Werder and Deputy Sherff Lawrence Neri, raced from this city with the fire department's inhalator It was found that the boys were too far gone from drowning, and that resuscutation methods were without avail.

Broadway Store Is Entered by Thief

Twice this week the store of Montgomery Ward & Co. on Broadway has been entered by burglars or a burglar as apparently both entries were made by the same person. In both instances clothing of small sizes was taken, indicating, the police believe, that the robbery may be the work of some boy The first entry was made sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning. On Tuesday night a second entry of the store was made In both cases entrance was gained by means of a rear window.

Miss Pearl Beer and Miss Ethel Headley returned this week from a brief visit with friends in Sacramento.

HARBOR PROBLEM SOLVED

Redwood Harbor Co. To Dredge and Fill Site

Redwood City will have its harbor and it will cost $500 less than the engineer's estimate. By reason of an agreement completed by City Manager A. E. Rolison and the Redwood Harbor Company, the latter company will agree to complete the fill of the Redwood harbor site and to do the dredging and other work necessary to complete the project for the sum of $9,500. The estimate of the engineer for this work was $10,000.

In announcing the agreement with the harbor company, Rolison said:

"An agreement has since been reached and a proper contract is now being executed whereby the Redwood City Harbor Company proposes to complete the fill and do other work necessary in accordance with the plans and specifications adopted, for the flat sum of $9500, or $500 less than the estimated cost of this work. This leaves the latter amount, or the sum of $500 available for the improvements of the roadway leading to the harbor site. Thus, the total cost to the city, including the purchase of property together with the completion of all work originally contemplated, will not exceed the sum of $54,500.

Funeral Held For Captain J. Wallace

Funeral services were held in San Francisco Monday for Captain John W. Wallace, well known navigator of San Francisco, and father of Mrs. Stanley D. Woods of this city. Captain Wallace, formerly a resident of Redwood City, was the son of an equally well known mariner, Captain George Wallace of this city, who passed away a little more than a year ago. Both men, father and son, were intimately connected with the development of San Francisco's shipping.

Captain John Wallace was born in Thomaston, Maine, 57 years ago, but was practically raised aboard a ship When he was 21 years of age he had his master's papers and was in command of a vessel. He had been commander of the San Francisco Bar Pilot's Association for more than 16 years.

Captain Wallace is survived by his mother, Mrs. Marrietta Wallace of this city, his wife, Mrs. Frances Wallace, and his daughter, wife of Police Sergeant Stanley Woods of this city.

BAYSHORE CONTINUATION MEET ENDS IN DEADLOCK

Neither Side Willing to Compromise In Dispute Over Spur Track Which Is Blocking Development

The meeting called by the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce between officials of the California Highway Commission and of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company for consideration of the extension of the Bayshore road, which was blocked by the railroad company's construction of a spur track across the proposed route of the highway, apparently ended in a deadlock. The meeting was held Friday at the office of Charles G Lambert, and was attended by officials of both organzations as well as many interested business men of the peninsula.

The thing most apparent at the meeting was the determination of neither the Southern Pacific nor the Highway Commission to give way. B. B. Meek, state director of public work, stated emphatically that the roadway will not be constructed as long as the Southern Pacfic spur track is where it is. The road designed for fast commercial traffic will not be built over grade crossings of railroads, Meek stated, and while the plan for the Bayshore highway will not be abandoned, nevertheless, the road will not be built over any spur tracks.

The Southern Pacific was equally emphatic in its stand, avering its right to construct the spur track, and refusing to remove it When this statement was made by the Southern Pacific officials, members of the highway commission began to leave the meeting. At this point Carl Stoner of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce, demanded of the highway commissioners what they contemplated doing with the deeds for the right of way for this road which had been given to the state by property owners. "Give them back," Meek replied.

Members of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce expressed disappointment at the stubborn attitude of both the highway commission and the railroad, which precluded any compromise agreements. "A road with unused spur tracks is much better than no road at all," Secretary-manager E. B. Hinman of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce stated after the meeting, "but with the way things turned out there was no opportunity to offer compromise suggestions to either side." The feeling prevalent throughout the county was summed up the following day by A. B. Cargill of the Burlingame Advance as follows:

"The conference called by the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce between executives of the California highway commission and executives of the Southern Pacific railroad ended with practically nothing accomplished and by getting nowhere.

"The conference was called for the purpose of ironing out the difficulties over the spur track railroad which apparently is blocking continuation of the Bayshore highway to Redwood City.

"The Bayshore highway continuation is a matter of vital importance in this county and also to Santa Clara county. The ultimate plan is to continue the road right into San Jose, and thus give another route down the peninsula to help congested traffic conditions.

"Executives of the highway commission maintain that the highway is a "super-highway" that should not be slowed up by crossings and spur tracks. Men in high position with the Southern Pacific maintain that the Bayshore is not a "super-highway."

"During the meeting, representatives of the state intimated that the rights of way deeds might be returned to the donnors unless some different settlement can be made about the spur track situation.

"Plans for this highway were made, and the deeds obtained, long before the Southern Pacific put in the spur track.

"It would appear that the interests of the greater number of persons would be served, and that much more progress would be made if the Southern Pacific stepped aside and did not force an issue with the spur track that begins from practically nowhere and to all appearances is serving no purpose other than to obstruct."

HOME COMFORTS

EDITORIAL

The advancement that has taken place during the past fifty years has affected everything about us. But nowhere has the transformation been greater than in the American home. A comparison of our modern homes here in Redwood City with the homes of fifty years ago—yes, even twenty-five years ago, causes one to wonder where our parents and grandparents found any comfort in their homes.

Today we enjoy those many comforts that have been given us thru the discovery and development of electricty. We enjoy complete protection from the cold through insulation and modern heating systems. We have been able to take the hours of drudgery out of the lives of our housewives through the development of mechanical devices which have become indispensable to the modern home. Indeed, there is a tremendous change in the home of today, hot and cold running water, hardwood floors, cedar lined linen closets, breakfast nooks, tasteful pictures and hangings, color everywhere. Contrast our modern interiors with the gingerbread work and curios and nicknacks the family of yesteryear had to cherish with a feather duster. The albums and queer things under glass and mantel ornaments that were supposed to give an aesthetic air to the home! In those days there were certain rooms which must not be entered at all except on state occasions. The doors were kept locked and the curtains drawn so the light would not fade carpets and wallpaper. Every spring and fall a general house cleaning of several days duration was necessary, causing a semi-annual upheaval dreaded by all.

What a difference in the uncluttered, cheerful, lived-in homes of today. The dank musuem that was known as the front parlor has been banished entirely The big dining room with its massive furniture and plate racks and portraits of fish and fowl has gone with it. In many homes the spare bedroom has been dispensed with, for there are now wall-beds and day-beds, and davenports that can be made ready in a moment for the occasional guest.

The modern living room is all that the name implies. It is the gathering place of the family. Here you will find books and music and games, and the most comfortable furniture. It is the very heart of the home.

Money that was once spent for unused rooms and unneeded furniture is now invested in features that add to the livableness of the home. Home is the place to come to when we are tired. It should be a place of such peace and comfort that all worldly cares are forgotten within its walls It should be the haven of the spirit, the place where the sweetest memories of life are formed. A place so dear, so worth while, that our young folks, growing up and going out to make homes of their own, will want to bring to their new homes the spirit that prevaded the old.

Are you giving your children that kind of a home? Are you teaching them the quality of discrimination they learn so easily in the right home environment—the appreciation of good music, good pictures, the care of nice things, all the little niceties of modern living?

If your home is not up to modern standards, then it should be your ideal to make it so. The study of home furnishings and decoration is fascinating, and the rewards of its application are many — more comfort and beauty in our daily lives, and in addition, the pride of having done something to make the world a better place to live in.

The girl struggled, and it is reported, escaped She was found wandering about in a dazed condition the next morning by a Portola farmer, who brought her to Redwood City.

S. S. F. Riot Ends In Jail

Three workmen were seriously injured in a riot which broke out in the South San Francisco plant of the Pacific Coast Steel Company. The riot reported to be the result of ill feeling between American and foreign workmen at the plant followed an attack upon John Hanlon, 20, who was stabbed near the heart, and is in a critcal condition. John E Butler, 24, another workman stepped into assist Hanlon and was slightly wounded. E. A. Navarro, arrested for the attack upon the two men, was also injured, beng struck on the head by a steel bar in the hands of another workman.

The fight resulted in a riot in which many of the workers of the plant joined and which lasted until the police arrived and quelled the disturbance. For some time, it is said, Mexican and Italian workmen have been at swords points, while there has been hard feelings between the American workmen and the foreigners. Earlier in the day, the police were told, Navarro threw a hammer at A. L. Signorelli.

The preliminary work completed; the stage is set for the Young Men's Institute rodeo which will be held Sunday on the Middlefield road, near the city limits. A vivid picture of the "Wild West" will be presented at 1:30 when the events will begin. In fact, many of the noted riders who participated in the Salinas rodeo and at Livermore will be in Redwood City to compete for cash prizes and trophies Among these noted riders will be Norman Cowan, winner of the Roosevelt Trophy at Pendleton, Oregon, in 1926, symbolic of the world's championship; Bob Studenick, winner of the bull riding contest at Salinas; Leonard Ward, state bucking horse champion; John Gerant, famous rodeo clown and Joe Malloy, winner of the relay at Salinas and Livermore.

Air Transport Grows Rapidly

Washington.—The development of the aeronautics and air transport industry during the three years' life of the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce has been "among this country's outstanding achievements," Secretary of Commerce Lamont declared recently in surveying the present state of development of the industry.

"With the increasing interest being shown in this subject by the general public, there is every reason to believe that the immediate future will bring forth even greater accomplishments," he added.

Secretary Lamont predicted "the foundations have been laid for a great transportation system over which swift aerial carriers will bear their cargoes of mail, express and passengers to every corner of the globe."

Outlook for Big 1929 Record.

A statistical estimate of the condition of the industry appended to Secretary Lamont's statement indicated that if the present rapid growth in air transport operations continues during the remainder of the year, the operations for 1929 will exceed the total for the last three years.

The report estimated that the mileage flown by air transport operators for the first half of 1929 would total 8,000,000 miles as against 10,500,000 for all of 1928, 5,870,489 for 1927 and 4,318,087 for 1926.

The average of miles flown daily by air transport operators for the first half of the year, estimated to be 70,000 miles, is almost three times as great as the average for all of 1928, which was 26,606, more than four times the average of 16,083 miles for 1927 and almost seven times the average of 10,830 miles for 1926.

Thirty Thousand Miles of Airways.

The total length of the airways network, estimated now to be 30,000 miles, has jumped from a total of 16,667 miles at the close of 1928; 9,121 miles at the close of 1927, and 8,404 miles at the close of 1926. Ten thousand miles of airways, or one-third of the total, are lighted, as compared with 6,988 at the close of 1928; 4,468 at the close of 1927, and 2,041 at the end of 1926.

The greatest increases were shown for the income-producing activities of air transport companies. It was estimated that 40,000 passengers were carried during the first six months of 1929, as against 35,000 in all of 1928, 8,679 in 1927, and 5,872 in 1926. Total mail carried was computed at 3,400,000 pounds, as against 4,061,210 pounds in 1928, 1,654,165 in 1927, and 810,855 in 1926. Express volume was fixed at 1,200,000, as against 2,000,000 for 1928.

There are now 45 companies operating air transport lines, compared to 37 at the close of 1928, 19 at the close of 1927, and 14 at the close of 1926. They have 400 airplanes in service, an increase from 300 at the close of 1928, 128 at the close of 1927, and 69 at the close of 1926.

Thought for Today

Uniform Marriage Laws Needed?

New York.—Eleven states of the Union still permit girls of twelve to marry. In several states marriage licenses are issued by mail, without the appearance of either prospective bride or groom before the license clerk.

In many places the license clerk is dependent upon the fees he receives for his entire pay, and consequently he issues licenses promiscuously and without questions.

There are at least 57 "marriage market" towns in the United States where law is so lax that justices of the peace and "marrying parsons" advertise that ceremonies will be performed at any time of day or night, and no questions asked.

These conditions, brought to light in the recent survey conducted by the Russell Sage Foundation, explain a big percentage of the constantly increasing number of American divorces, according to F. Emerson Andrews, who analyzes the foundation's report in the current issue of the North American Review.

Approximately 700,000 persons in the United States, it was found, have participated in marriages involving girls under sixteen. Hundreds of thousands of others have taken advantage of these lax conditions to marry bigamously, or while intoxicated, or while mentally or physically incompetent.

Practically 100 per cent of such marriages, Mr. Andrews points out, are doomed to end in the divorce courts.

The states where marriages of girls of twelve are permitted are Maine, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Florida, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Tennessee, Virginia, Colorado and Idaho. Twenty-four states, including such highly developed commonwealths as New York, New Jersey, Ohio and Pennsylvania, still recognize the common law marriage, in which a man and woman may live together under a mere secret agreement between themselves.

Adoption and enforcement of uniform marriage laws throughout the country could quickly check the rising tide of divorce at its source, it is shown. Recommendations for such laws, made by the Russell Sage Foundation investigators and published in the North American Review article are:

1. Raise the minimum age for marriage to 16 years everywhere. 2. Require a notice of intention to marry to be filed five days before the license may be issued. 3. Issue licenses at regular hours only, on the basis of proved age and in the town or county where the bride or groom resides. 4. Abolish the fee system for payment of license clerks. 5. Abolish the fee system for the civil solemniztion of marriage by justices. 6. Let religious bodies establish in theological seminaries thorough instruction regarding marriage laws, and deal rigidly with the commercial practices of "marrying parsons." 7. Establish a bureau of marriage law supervision in each state.

Renege on "Kissless Marriages"

Los Angeles, Calif.—Flaming youth's latest innovation, the "kissless," platonic marriage, has been tried in Los Angeles.

And did it work? Well, perhaps the two young men selected for the experiment were not esthetic enough. They appeared in local courts and asked to be released from their college girl wives and their new style of matrimony. Both were granted annulments on the grounds that they had been defrauded.

The two girls, who had attempted to revolutionize marriage and substitute an ideal platonic relationship sans all caresses, did not appear in court to witness the failure of their experiment.

"It was a great little plan, but that was all," said A. A. Anderson, one of the young husbands.

When he appeared in Judge Leonard Wilson's court he told how he had lived with his wife for two years and had never received a kiss or a caress.

"She told me that she loved me, but she just would not kiss me," he explained. "Kisses," she said, "were repulsive to her."

Almost simultaneously Richard V. Watson, a young banker, was relating a similar story in the court of Judge Elliott Craig.

"I met her at a University of Southern California sorority dance," Watson said. "She was the prettiest girl there. She seemed to care for me. We were married in two days.

"Then I discovered her strange ideas about marriage. She refused to kiss me. Kissing was degrading to women; it typifies the subjection of the female to the male, she said. I lived with her for half a year and could not change her viewpoint."

Church Roof Acts as Radio Receiving Set

Winnipeg.—Midnight strollers in Victoria, B. C., passing new Christ Church cathedral this spring heard phantom music and the rippling swell of a Bach fugue rolling from the half-finished church. Out from the chancel rang the sound, though no organ is installed. Moonlight and mystery joined hands to send shivers down Victorian backs, and the shivers quickened as the sound of a priest intoning his Benedicite was heard when the sound of the organ ceased. Scientists who investigated stated that the great expanse of copper roof had caught the waves of some broadcast recital from the United States and acted as a receiving radio set.

Gem-Eating Ostriches Lure Diamond Hunters

Washington.—The finding of 70 diamonds in the craws of two ostriches killed by hunters in the southern part of the Kalahari desert in South Africa has started a new industry, "hunting ostriches for diamonds," Samuel H. Day, trade commissioner at Johannesburg, has informed the Department of Commerce. One bird produced 53 diamonds and the other 17, all of exceptional quality, it is reported. These ostriches formerly roamed the Namaqualand district, where rich alluvial diamond deposits are said to exist, and, having an eye for shining stones, included diamonds in their diet.

Master Farmer in Prize Wheat Field

Fred Laptad, farmer of Lawrence, Kan., in the midst of his 100 per cent pure wheat field. Laptad has set what is believed to be a record in the agricultural life of the country by having developed his wheat properties for five years with a rating of 100 per cent pure wheat. He raises his wheat exclusively for seed and his wares are marketed to farmers all over the United States as well as in many foreign countries. He also holds the medal as the master farmer of the state of Kansas.

50 Cents Would Cover Cost of Thunderstorm

Washington.—A half dollar probably would pay for all the electricity expended in the average thunderstorm, the bureau of standards estimated today.

At the prevailing rate of 5 cents a kilowatt hour, a single flash of lightning is worth about four-tenths of a cent. While a flash in a severe storm generates power of 1,000,000 kilowatts, capable of doing appalling damage, its duration being 3-100,000 of a second, it represents but 8-1,000 of a kilowatt hour, the basis upon which commercial current is sold.

"It is surprising that there are not more deaths by lightning," the bureau said. "Reports show that about 500 persons are killed every year by flashes. The property damage, especially in rural districts, however, is tremendous."

Explaining the phenomenon, the bureau said that large raindrops containing electrical charges, on striking the upper current of air are broken into smaller drops and the energy released.

ON BEING WELL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

So many things we take for granted in life—regular food, clothing, health—and taking them for granted, we very seldom feel any sense of thankfulness or appreciation of these things which are regularly ours. I have seldom ever been hungry excepting for an hour or two in my life. I have always had adequate clothing, though at times I have wished it were more elegant or of greater variety, and as for illness, there has never been a time in my life when I was considered seriously ill. I've had ague and measles and an occasional ache or pain for a day or two, and that is as much as I know about real illness. I come and go as most of you do, never giving much consideration as to how I feel, what I shall eat or what I shall drink or wherewithal I shall be clothed. These things have never been matters to require serious consideration.

But not all people are so lucky.

Sam has been lying in a hospital almost ever since I came to know him four years ago. He is an ambitious young fellow, who had every likelihood of doing something worth while until disease got a grip on him and sent him to bed where he has been lying all these months. He has a good prospect of some day being well but no one knows exactly when. It will take time and patience and self-sacrifice on his part. Until health comes he must lie quietly and take things as they come, and amuse himself as he may. There is little he can do.

His bed is by an open window, and the view outside is a very restricted one. A road passes near by obscured by shrubbery, but occasionally he can see a motor car scurrying by or a pedestrian moving slowly along the road as he himself longs to do. The strip of lawn in view of his window grows green in the spring; flowers are planted in the small beds scattered about and gladden his eye with their color. The grass grows brown and dead as winter comes on; snow covers the ground at intervals, and all the time Sam is lying looking out upon this circumscribed scene. He has been a very active boy, too, before his illness. He has memories of athletic games in which he excelled, of long walks along pleasant shady roads, of cantering over the prairies on horseback, and these recollections make his enforced imprisonment the more galling.

He would be happier sometimes, he thinks, if he were alone with a few games and a book or two and his own thoughts, but he is surrounded by people not of his own choosing or of his own tastes. Twenty-four hours a day, seven days in the week, three hundred and sixty-five days in the year—the same people shut in as he is. How they can keep from hating each other I cannot see.

It's a wonderful thing to be well!

HOME—

The people in a progressive, healthy and happy community must, above all things, be well housed.

The kind of houses in which we live and the shape in which we keep them tell what kind of a people we are.

Your residence—where you live—is one of the most important facts about you. Truly, "as your house, so are you."

Homes cover a wide range of individual wealth and taste. They are an evidence of both.

A home should be the best a family can possibly afford.

The interior of the home is as important as the exterior. Authorities tell us that the minimum standard for each house is:

1—At least one room per person.
2—No dark rooms.
3—A heating system.
4—A lighting system.
5—Hot and cold running water.
6—Toilet and bath.
7—Screens.

The art of good housekeeping is today far more simple than ever before. From back door to front, from roof to cellar, there are available modern, labor-saving and comfort producing devices and products within the reach of all.

Comfortable furniture, such as chairs, davenports and beds that economize space, invite rest and make the home more attractive and more livable.

Hangings, decorations, curtains, pictures and rugs, lend warmth and color to the rooms. Modern lighting fixtures and lamps not only add to a room's attractiveness but also eliminate the danger of eye strain. Present day heating equipment makes not only for greater heating efficiency and economy, but also increases comfort in the home by supplying moist air and the proper indoor temperature during even the coldest periods.

For the household that handles its laundry work in the home, modern laundry equipment not only relieves the home manager of irksome toil, but also cleanses more thoroughly and efficiently.

The greatly improved kitchen stoves and appliances now available eliminate drudgery and worry of working.

Just as modern mechanical equipment has served to make industry more efficient, modern household appliances not only save hours of the busy house-wife's time, but make home-keeping a more pleasant and happy task. With modern housekeeping equipment house cleaning is no longer a seasonal activity, but a weekly one. The result is a healthier, happier and more comfortable home.

Our interest in the welfare of this community prompts us to sponsor this message to the people of

West Point Alternate

Senator S. M. Shortridge has selected Brooke Hatch, a bright student at the Menlo School, formerly the Warren Military Academy, as an alternate to a young gentleman from Santa Barbara for an appointment to West Point. Mr. Shortridge had three appointments to the national academy and three alternates to each. Should the first fail to qualify, the first alternate takes his place. It is said young Hatch has a good chance to make the grade and become a soldier enabling him to participate "in battles fierce and wild."

Appointed Special Officer

William Glynn has been appointed a special officer of the Menlo Park police department. It is a good appointment for Mr. Glynn is a very excellent young man.

Mrs. Wilbur Doxsee and Miss Ruth Doxsee have returned from a vacation spent at Crater Lake.

The initiatory degree will be conferred upon a group of candidates next Wednesday evening, July 31, by Bay View Lodge 109, Independent Order of Odd Fellows. Refreshments will be served.

Get it Better with a Grebe

The World Knows No Higher Standard than Grebe Quality

THE difference between an ordinary car and a fine one is much like that between "mass production" radios and the Grebe Synchrophase A-C Six.

Heat-tempered, special alloy metals in the superb car; carefully selected, costly materials in the Grebe Synchrophase—designed, assembled and tested by engineers who can only produce the best.

A Grebe dealer is not satisfied to give his customers just "good enough" radios. He knows that real enjoyment comes only from the utmost in tonal beauty, range and selectivity; that you will want to pay a little more to "Get it better with a Grebe."

THE Grebe Synchrophase A-C Six operates from an A-C (alternating current) light socket and offers many new Grebe features, including a
—Local-Distance Switch
—Antenna Control for sharper tuning, and the —Illuminated Dial in kilocycles to match figures in newspaper program.

Yankees Not Tough to Beat

"THE Yankees are not so tough to beat if you go right out and battle them. Some clubs and some pitchers curl up, roll over and are beaten before they start when the Yankees dash upon the field.

"But the Washington club bothered them last year because we declined to believe that just because the Yanks were champions it was in their contracts that they could not be beaten."

Such was the explanation of Garland Braxton, the slender southpaw of the Washington club, a pitcher so slender that his 152 pounds are distributed along a frame of five feet eleven inches. In telling how it was the Nats troubled the Yankees so much, winning nine games from them after a bad start.

Garland Braxton.

The Nats were just as easy as other clubs for New York in the spring, but when the Washington pitchers, Braxton and Sam Jones in particular, rounded into shape, they gave the champions a lot of bother.

"Major league benches are too large," is another of Braxton's sage remarks. "A lot of big league clubs carry pitchers all season who are not ready for the big show and who might be acquiring real experience in the minors."

The purchase of Braxton by the New York Yankees at the close of the season of 1925 was a blessing for the slender southpaw, for it was at New York that Braxton learned more about the art of mystifying the batters. Coached by Herb Pennock, he imitated Pennock's delivery but where Pennock throws a curve, Braxton depends chiefly upon his fadeaway or screw ball.

"The screw ball is bad on the pitcher's arm," says George Uhle. "It never bothered my arm," says Braxton, "and I have thrown plenty of them. In fact, since 1923, I have not had a sore arm. Sometimes when New York and Washington was calling on me often for relief work, my whip was tired."

"You know," added Braxton, "my lack of weight always has caused managers to figure I was not strong enough. At Boston I was told I was too light. When I joined New York I guess Miller Huggins felt the same way for he did not call on me until he threw me into games he figured were already lost. But he did not consider me strong enough to go the entire route and that is how he happened to send me to Washington so he could grab Dutch Ruether."

Yet this 152-pound six-footer took part in 50 games for Washington, more than any other American league pitcher in 1928, in three more games than Marberry even.

Ebbets at Princeton

Charles Ebbets III, son of Charles Ebbets II, former secretary of the Brooklyn Baseball club and grandson of the late Charles Ebbets of the Brooklyn Baseball club who plays first base on the Princeton varsity team. Young Ebbets is 6 feet 2 inches and weighs 186 pounds. He bats and throws right handed and is said to resemble the late Jake Daubert in his manner of playing.

Sporting Squibs

New York fight experts liken Fidel La Barba to Packey McFarland, of Chicago. McFarland was a lightweight.

Big Six Conference Is Strong for Polo Game

Polo as a collegiate sport in the southwest is pushing its way toward a place on the Big Six conference program.

Fleet army ponies from the remount station at Fort Reno have replaced draft horses with cowboy saddles on the University of Oklahoma's team.

Oklahoma was the first school in the conference to play polo. Students started the game by playing on work horses. Now regulation polo equipment is used in polo classes as well as by squad members.

The University of Missouri and Iowa State, following Oklahoma's example, also have begun instruction in polo. Major E. P. Parker, commandant of the R. O. T. C. at Oklahoma, coach of the Sooner players, believes polo soon will become a regular Big Six sport.

Fort Worth Pilot Sets Mark for Long Service

Jakey Atz, Fort Worth's baseball pilot, probably holds a record for continued management of the same minor league club.

He came to the Panthers from Chicago in 1918 and has won six Texas league pennants, the last in 1925.

Like the courthouse clock, Atz has become a fixture in Fort Worth. He has not bothered to sign a contract for several years. When spring training time arrives, he drives to Fort Worth from his New Orleans home, and when the season closes he returns there.

Huggins Tells Secret

Miller J. Huggins, manager of the world champion New York Yankees in explaining how he keeps his all-star team hustling even after capturing six pennants in the last eight years, says: "I teach them to play every game as though it depended upon our winning the pennant. That is my motto. Every game for itself. That keeps them hustling, no matter how far ahead they are or who they are playing. That is the reason the Yanks win many games.

JIM McLEOD ALL-AROUND ATHLETE

Arkansas Rookie Signs to Play With Washington.

S. J. McLeod, whom home folks call "Jimmie" for short, will go up to the big time next fall with the good-will and interest of all the state of Arkansas, for Jim is an "Arkansas boy."

Born in the shadow of Kavanaugh field, the home lot of the travelers, Little Rock's Southern association team, Jim McLeod just grew into baseball.

He is nineteen years old, quit his high school education and refused to make a special trip to Chicago to represent his state in the interscholastic track meet, just to get his first tryout with the Arkansas Travelers this year.

And he has made good, for the sale of the boy to the Washington club is said to have involved $12,000 cash, says a Little Rock special to the Washington Star.

The boy thought enough of his ability to quit school in order to have a chance to "make" the Travelers, and his sale thus vindicates his judgment and the judgment of the Traveler officials. With the local club he has been batting about .260 and his fielding has been sensational and steady.

McLeod was known to the boys in school as "Father Time" and "Daddy," because he was slow about getting out to practice. He is an all around athlete. He made all-State end in football and played center with the champion high school basket ball team, and made his letter in track with the discus.

Refusing to attend the Chicago track meet caused him to be soundly panned, but when he started making a mark with the Travelers his critics became his strongest boosters.

The shortstop who has meant so much to the local club this season probably will become known as the "country boy" when he joins the Griffmen, for he is just a well built, husky, sandy-haired boy—"a second Travis Jackson," some say, around Arkansas. McLeod plays the game every minute and fan, about as often as he hits, but when he does hit it usually is for extra buses.

Manager Jack Steele and President Edgar Allen of Little Rock liked the way he handled himself on the diamond from the outset, and, despite his youth and inexperience, counted him as a regular before the first week of spring practice was ended.

Whatever McLeod does in the big show, his work probably will be watched with greater interest than any athlete who has "gone up" from Arkansas in many years.

With the exception of one year in semiprofessional baseball in the "bush leagues of Arkansas," McLeod has had no more experience in baseball than he has in other lines of sports. Out Arkansas way he is regarded as "just a born athlete."

CALIFORNIA NEWS BRIEFS

Placer county will expend $2,000 on an exhibit at the state fair next September, according to a resolution passed by the board of supervisors.

The reopening of the Snowbird Mine, above Foresthill, has started under the direction of Martin Costello. Timbers are being cut and unwatering will start at an early date. This property is reported to have a good showing of gold.

Construction work on a new $10,000 firehouse at Pleasanton will start immediately it was announced by C. A. Bruce & Sons, local contractors. A recent bond issue provided funds for the building. The old firehouse will be razed and the new one built in its place.

Owing to the fact that all assessment work on mining claims had to start before June 30, it has been a busy time at the recorder's office at Sonora with filing of proofs of labor. Ninety-eight documents had been filed by July 1, and twenty-six were filed during the first three days of July.

Fire recently destroyed the Recreation Park pavilion adjoining the athletic field of the Placer Union High School in Auburn. The pavilion was formerly used as a site for fairs and expositions and was once the gymnasium of the Placer Union High School. It also had been used as a skating rink.

The "Placerville bottleneck" on the Lincoln Highway will be widened for next year's summer travel. This is the prospect following dismissal of the city's condemnation suit against J. A. Sigwart, which accompanied Sigwart's agreement to "come to terms" set down by property with which to widen the street.

The water shortage has become so acute in Lovelock that the city council has notified citizens no water may be used for gardens or trees. Only sufficient water is available for home purposes. The Humboldt river is so low at Lovelock that no water can be obtained from the stream, and the city is rushing work on two new wells in hopes of increasing the municipal water supply.

Efforts will be made to secure funds for the erection of a hall of records at Martinez. It is planned to include a tax levy for the work rather than to bond for the necessary funds. The levy will be apportioned over a number of years. The county already owns the site for the proposed building, which consists of a city block directly across the street and south of the present courthouse.

Recommendations of Hunters Valley, Mariposa county, as a site for the proposed federal narcotic addicts' farm was laid before Governor Young's commission co-operating with federal authorities. The commission, consisting of O. T. Johnson, Jr., of Los Angeles, State Narcotic Chief F. H. Benson and Senator Sanborn Young of Los Gatos, is considering the resolution of the Mariposa Chamber of Commerce asking that Hunters Valley be considered before a site is selected.

Stockton will be a radio fan's paradise if an ordinance presented to the city council by the Music and Radio Trades Association is adopted. The proposed ordinance would make it unlawful for any person to use electrical devices within the city which would interfere with radio broadcast or reception. Heating pads, oil burners, vacuum cleaners, flashers, motors and simila devices would come under the ban. Violations would be punishable by six months in jail, $500 fine or both.

Leaders have expressed dissatisfaction over the utility's request that the City of Richmond pay $20,000 to lay the proposed 12 inch water main to the inner harbor, the money to be refunded over a period of 10 years in accordance with the amount of water used. It was explained by Henry A. Johnston, Richmond's representative on the utility board, that if the city does not pay the assessment must be applied on the tax rate. Objectors declared they feared that the utility plan would mean that there would be no refund because the city would not have used up the equivalent value in water to offset the $20,000 payment in the 10 year period.

Negotiations for the purchase by the Roseville School Board of the block facing the Atlantic Street Grammar School have been completed. The newly acquired property will be cleared of the homes, and for the present will be use as a playground. The school board has definitely decided to call a bond election to submit an $80,000 proposal for a ten-room school to replace the present Main Street building, and for the addition of ten rooms to the Vernon Street school building to replace the Oak Street school. The date of the election has not been definitely decided, but probably will be in the Fall, when many of the local residents, who are now away for the Summer, have returned to their homes.

Voting three to one, with one member of the board absent, the directors of the Modesto Irrigation District ratified the contract whereby the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation agrees to supply the district with electricity needed to supplement that generated at Don Pedro Dam. The action of the board followed receipt of a telephoned message that the Turlock Irrigation District diectors had signed an agreement whereby power purchased by the Modesto district will be carried over the Turlock Irrigation District lines.

First steps will be taken to determine the amount of money necessary to operate Butte county's government during the next fiscal year, County Auditor Lucy Richard said.

If Kern county is without funds with which to run its government it must have exceeded its budget, State Controller Ray L. Riley decided when advised that Kern county officials declared they were without money and that the county must register its warrants, paying 7 per cent interest, until tax moneys are available next December.

The Mendocino City Sawmill, shut down for more than a year, reopened recently employing 200 men. Officers of the company announced work would be resumed in the woods.

Chief Scudero announced that the police of Pittsburg are to be equipped with machine guns, tear bombs and tear guns, for use in guarding industrial payrolls when received in that city.

The Navy Department will sell the old cruiser Albany, now moored north of the yard channel, it has been announced. The date for the sale of the ship is not mentioned, but it is expected that it will be auctioned off before the end of the year.

Problems confronting Richmond in securing water from the East Bay Municipal Utility District supply will be ironed out by a special committee headed by P. M. Sanford, president of the Chamber of Commerce in conference with utility district directors.

Santa Rosa is heralded as one of the leading convention cities of the state for 1930. Among the organizations which will hold convention there are the Knights of Pythias, the Sonoma County Teachers Institute, the District Parent-Teacher Association, Presbyterian Synod and the annual camp meeting of the Nazarene church.

A few days' joint fiesta will be held by Rio Nido, Guerneville and Guernewood Park beginning August 15, it has been announced by William L. Kenyon, chairman of the general committee. A beauty queen contest for communities within 100 miles of the Russian river will precede the festival, the ruler of the fiesta to be chosen and installed on August 15 at Guerneville Grove. Other features include an open-air play, dancing, water sports and parades.

Mrs Emily L. Jones, Eureka's first woman mayor, who gained national recognition when she declared, following her election, that she did not expect to be any more successful in enforcing prohibition than the Federal Government, took office recently. The woman mayor, who declared that "women can conduct the affairs of a city just as well as men—sometimes better," was given an ovation by the crowd when she took the oath of office.

While on the face of the assessment roll of Nevada county, as turned over to the board of supervisors by County Assessor H. C. Schroeder, there is an appaent increase, there is in reality a decrease in the poperty values subject to taxation for county purposes. The total value of all property on the rolls is $9,928,520. Last year this same class of property was assessed for $9,564,480. An apparent increase of $364,040 is shown on the roll.

Officials of the Provident Irrigation District announced that the organization would be forced to default payment of the bond interest and the principal yet unpaid on the installment due in July. L. M. Benoit, secretary of the district, stated that delinquent tax by landowners in the district caused the plight of the organization. The district, he said, has $41,000 on hand to meet obligations of over $50,000. Benoit said it was the first time in the history of the district that it defaulted payment.

The Yellow Metal Mine, perhaps California's only water-bound gold mine, is again active, according to reports reaching Grass Valley. It is located on the easterly side of Lake Bowman, which is the major storage unit of the Nevada Irigation District, in the face of a high bluff, and is accessible only by boat across the lake. The Yellow Metal has frequently been brought into public attention by reason of the attractive assays secured from the surface ore, and it is reported that plans for a mill are now being considered. Two years ago the property was incorporated as the Sunbeam Mining Company.

Keeping a close watch for historical articles during its salvaging campaign the state crew has contributed heavily to the historical collection of the state library. At the Bidwell mansion near Chico, the state workers collected old paintings with rare walnut frames, several priceless books, periodicals of the "days of '49" and correspondence of the period, together with articles brought around the Hon or across the plains. Historical records of all state owned buildings, with date of construction, cost, etc., also are being compiled with "case histories" of 1441 buildings completed to date.

The initial step was taken by the board of supervisors to link Yuba county with Sierra and Butte counties in a joint highway district for the constuction of the Yuba Pass cutoff. Through a set of resolutions the board declared the work of public interest and convenience. Copies were sent the Sierra and Butte county boards for adoption. The proposed route will extend from the city limits of Marysville north and northeast to a point on the present highway between Challenge and La Porte, thence easterly to a point near the bridge crossing the north fork of Yuba river on the state highway leading from Grass Valley to Downieville. Provided Sierra and Butte counties join in the movement a board of directors will be selected by the three boards.

Redding is enjoying Benton Field, its new municipal airport, named in memory of Lieutenant John W. Benton, Pan-American army aviator killed February 26, 1927, at Buenos Aires. Two of Lieutenant Benton's companions on the flight—Captain A. B. McDaniels of Kelly Field, Tex., and Lieutenant John Thompson of Wright Field, Dayton, O., attended the dedication. Lieutenant Benton, born in Redding was graduated from the University of California and was stationed at Crissy Field when detailed on the Pan-American flight.

The resolution further states that any such employs who is found to be physically or mentally unfit for his work will be discharged.

Faith of Small Girl Upset by Daisy Test

Rev. Earl Anderson of Dallas, who was recently jailed for contempt of court—he kept on building a Fundamentalist temple in violation of a court injunction—has a happy knack of sharpening his points by means of anecdote. Mr. Anderson said in a recent Y. M. C. A. address:

"The men who try to define and explain God are as foolish as little Ethel.

"Little Ethel, the foolish child, hurried in from the garden crying.

"'Why, Ethel, what's the matter?' said her mother. 'Did a wasp sting you or something?'

"'No, muvver,' little Ethel sobbed, 'but I've just found out God doesn't love me.'

"'Foolish, foolish child!' said the mother. 'How could you find out such a thing as that? God does love you of course.'

"'No, He doesn't,' little Ethel sobbed. 'I tried Him wiv a daisy.'"—Detroit Free Press.

"'Well, old horse, how's she going?'

"'Oh, very much better,' said the box office man. 'Fewer and fewer leave now before the end of the show.'"

Toy Balloon Traveled Far

A Swedish toy balloon recently made a safe crossing of the North sea, and landed in Yorkshire, in England. It was given away, with many hundred others, by a department store in Malmoe, in the southern Swedish province of Scania, and let loose by a youngster there. On the diminutive gas bag was printed the name and address of the store, for advertising purposes. The other day the manager of the store received it in the mail from a person in Yorkshire. It was deflated and wrapped in paper, but undamaged.

Criticism of a Car

Secretary Charles C. Janes, of the American Automobile association, said at a dinner in Washington:

"One automobilist asked another one day:

"'How much did you pay for that car, George?'

"'It was a very old and dilapidated car, and George answered gruffly:

"'I didn't pay nothin' for it. It was a present to me.'

"'George,' said the first automobilist, 'by golly, you've been robbed.'"

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Student Earnings

The bureau of education has recently made a survey with regard to the amount of money earned by students. In 763 colleges 34 per cent of the students were earning part or all of their expenses. In 315 co-educational schools, 134,716 men earned $23,000,000 or $159 each. The women earned only one-fifth of this amount, but then there were only one-fifth as many employed, so the average was about the same.

HIGH DEGREE OF SAFETY ACHIEVED IN AVIATION

Army Flyers Now Average 17½ Years in Air for Each Fatal Crash, Survey Shows.

New York.—How safe is airplane travel today?

The first comprehensive answer to this question, which is concerning more and more Americans each year is provided by Herbert Brucker, writer and aviation enthusiast, in a survey of current aerial activities in America which is published in The Review of Reviews.

By computing the number of miles flown within the latest recorded period and the number of fatal accidents in four classes of flying—army, navy, air mail and civilian flying clubs—Mr. Brucker finds flying has achieved an incredibly high degree of safety.

The average naval aviator today can fly for 19 years before meeting a fatal accident, he calculates. The army flyer can record 17½ years without a fatal crash; the air mail service recorded but one death in 2,583,006 miles flown in 1928, which would mean but one death in 129 years of flying; the civilian club flyer, including the dangerous period of student flying, had an average record indicating 13½ years aloft without a fatal accident.

All of these classes of flyers face dangers not encountered by the occasional air passenger, Mr. Brucker points out.

"Among naval flyers there were 13,728,000 miles flown and 28 killed," he shows. The record last year was 392,000 miles flown for each death. On the basis of the difficult flying done last year by naval aviators, that would mean that a man could fly 19 years, even if he were a frequent flyer, before he would be killed.

"This general conclusion is borne out by the army's experience. Army flying has almost tripled in seven years, and the number of fatalities has shrunk to one-third. Last year there was approximately a death to every 351,700 miles flown, indicating that an average man could fly on military tasks and in intricate maneuvers some 17½ years before having a fatal crash."

The air mail service for a single year shows but one death for 2,583,000 miles of flight, his Review of Reviews article shows. Estimating that the professional mail pilot covers 20,000 miles a year, he shows that this record means but one death in 129 years.

For civilian sport flying, Mr. Brucker takes the figures of the Canadian Light Airplane clubs, many of whose members were student flyers and, consequently, liable to more accidents. But at the end of a year the organization had recorded 812,400 miles flown with but three fatal crashes.

"Son of a Gun"

The origin of this expression is obscure. The first literary use that we have of it was printed in 1708, and is to be found in British Apollo, No. 43. In 1849 it was used by Thackeray in Pendennis. It is an epithet of contempt in slight degree, and was applied originally to boys born afloat, when wives accompanied their husbands to sea. One admiral declared that he was actually thus cradled—under the breast of a gun carriage.—Literary Digest.

A Real Mystery

Bohon of Marshall found the curious article sticking out of a bank of a brook. Some said it was an Indian smoking pipe. Some insisted that it was a Revolutionary powder case. But Bohon took it to Washington, where Dr. Walter Hough, curator of anthropology at the National museum, decided it was a Japanese inkwell.

H. H. Fish, Esq., President of the Company, summarizes from his letter to us as follows:

BUSINESS

Western Newspaper Union, successor to a company of the same name and a business founded in 1865, serves more than 10,000 daily and weekly country newspapers, maintaining fully equipped plants in 36 key cities of the United States from California to Massachusetts.

The Company supplies these newspapers with ready printed inside pages or with columns of prepared plate, containing various feature stories, serials and special articles selected by the newspaper publishers; places national advertising in their papers and prepares cuts and copy for local advertising campaigns.

The Company also does a large volume of commercial printing, prints in their entirety various magazines and trade journals and is responsible for the mechanical production of many of the feature services of The Associated Press.

FINANCIAL

During the past 20 years net profits of Western Newspaper Union, after all charges including depreciation, but before Federal taxes, averaged more than $680,000 annually, and in no single year were such net profits less than $450,000.

Net profits after depreciation, but before Federal taxes, for the past 4 years, as certified by Messrs. Arthur Andersen & Co., after eliminating operations of the paper mill, which is being sold coincident with this financing and after other adjustments arising from the reorganization as stated in their certificate, were as follows:

1925	$741,336
1926	955,383
1927	571,249
1928	765,825

Such net profits as above have averaged about $758,448 annually, and for the year ended December 31, 1928, amounted to $765,825, equivalent to more than 3 times the annual Debenture interest requirement.

After deducting from such net profits in 1928 Debenture interest requirements, Federal Taxes (parent company) at 12% and Preferred Stock dividends, the balance amounted to over $352,000, or about $2.35 per share on the 150,000 shares of Common Stock to be presently outstanding.

The net assets of the Company, available for these Debentures, based on the balance sheet, as at April 30, 1929, adjusted to give effect to the present financing, including the sale of the paper mill, were in excess of $8,500,000.

MANAGEMENT

Since the death in 1916 of the former owner, George A. Joslyn, his widow and other heirs have owned the majority of the Common Stock of Western Newspaper Union, control of which is now being acquired by the executives who have been responsible for its successful operation during the past 13 years.

All legal details will be passed upon by Messrs. Tenney, Harding, Sherman & Rogers of Chicago and by Messrs. White & Case of New York.
